WESTERNER 1967

WEST HIGH SCHOOL PHOENIX, ARIZONA

West's "front" entrance, rarely seen by students during school hours, greets them on their way to school, on the way home, and during fire drills. What happens at West between these times — from class work to exciting football games — is recorded in the 1966-67 WESTERNER.

BEHIND THE COVER

Time goes very slowly for Karen Duke when she is required to walk in the same place for two hours.

"Lucky" Laurie Simon gets to pose on the second floor of the lobby where the sun smothers instead of burns.

Gladly sacrificing their Saturday morning for the yearbook. Susan, Steve, Johnny, and Karen wait for the next shot — which may be the one that immortalizes them on the cover of the WESTERNER.

Independent study, one of the goals of Flexible Scheduling, made the various resource centers necessary. These centers, each covering a major academic area like the Science Resource Center, offered the proper atmosphere and materials for students to follow their own study routine in a specific field.

FLEXIBLE SCHEDULING

West's revolutionary Flexible Scheduling system brought freedom and independence to its students. Despite modifications, the results of overloading the computers which scheduled the students and maintaining order during the first weeks of school, Flexible Scheduling was a success in its first year at West. Students were given more freedom to study on their own which, in turn, gave the teachers more time to really teach. Other advantages included homework at school, a greater variety of subjects, and shorter periods. Flexible Scheduling, part of a three year plan, will continue to be modified until the ideal system — placing much of the responsibility on the student — is reached

Mrs. Annie Laurie Buehman and Miss Wilma Sain find the math resource center a good place to discuss the schedule for their algebra classes.

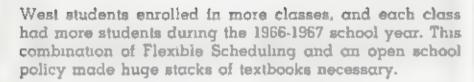

One advantage of the resource centers was the concentration of material covering a single academic field. The Social Studies resource center had a collection of books, pamphlets, and records concerning the social studies — from World History to American Government — which helped teachers with their lectures and students with their assignments

Flexible scheduling was ready for West, but was West ready for flexible scheduling? Four days before the first day of school, the math resource center still needed a floor, some paint, some furniture, and school supplies. Worries disappeared, however, as feverish last-minute work readied everything for the students and a new way of school life.

Resource centers offered large collections of specialized study material in each of the major academic subjects. This new type of study center led to a new type of teacher, resource center personnel. Mrs. Andree Weed, Foreign Language; Mrs. Molly Villemez, English; Mrs. Nita Shultz, Social Studies; Mrs. Ellen Cloyd, Clerical Pool; Mrs. Patricia Dalrymple, Clerical Pool; Mrs. Betty Bothwell, Clerical Pool; cal Pool; Mrs. Terrie Mead, General; Mrs. Catherine Creede, Math; and Mrs. Carol Martin, Science helped students using the centers in every way possible. They helped students find specific materials, issued make-up tests from the various classes, and maintained a quiet atmosphere for study. Their efforts helped make independent study at West a success.

FACULTY and ADMINISTRATION

The Board of Education is directly responsible for the planning and execution of all the policies concerning books, teachers, and curricula for the Phoenix Union High School System. The Board and Dr. Seymour were particularly interested in the success of Flexible Scheduling at West and the problems it has created. Changes which had to be made and the over-all effect on the students were carefully observed with the possibility of converting the whole Phoenix Union System to Flexible Scheduling.

PRINCIPAL

In his first year as principal of West, Dr. Robert Gard, met the double challenge of establishing his new administration and making the new Flexible Scheduling System work. Dr. Gard developed a deep respect for West High tradition and West's strong student organization. Under Dr. Gard's direction, the problems created by Flexible Scheduling were remedied and plans were made to expand and modify the system. He expressed his strong belief in the success of the '66-'67 school year in a message to the students'

"Another year of West High's history has been written, not in pen and ink only, but also in lives and experiences. In ways we sometimes recognize — in others that more subtly dwell in the subconscious — all of us have changed and grown.

For many of you, this spring marks the end of your investment of hours and effort in your high school education; for others, it is a station along the way. For all, the year has been a time of gain — in memories, in knowledge, in skills.

May this summer and the coming year — and all your coming years — be progressively more pleasant and rewarding."

Dr. Gard has guided West through the many crises which the year presented. His leadership has helped keep and will continue to keep — West among the leading high schools in the United States

Mr. C.W. Roland

ASSOCIATE PRINCIPAL

Responsible for all non-academic functions of the school, Associate Principal C. W. Roland supervised cafeteria services, school budget, custodial services, school improvements, and the business functions of the school Mr. Roland was also indirectly responsible for the coordination of West's athletic program and activities program

Mr. Roland has been deeply involved in the planning and establishment of Flexible Scheduling at West. After observing the system during its first year of operation, Mr. Roland addressed the students:

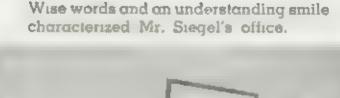

"The school year 1966-1967 has been a busy one with its share of disappointments and accomplishments.

I want to congratulate the student body on their ability to adjust to changing conditions and to wish the class of '67 the best of everything on their activities after high school."

Miss Jeanne Bailey GIRLS' ADM. ASS'T.

Disciplinary problems filling only half their busy year, Miss Jeanne Bailey and Mr. Jerome Siegel spent much of their time coordinating West's varied extra-curricular activities.

As Administrative Assistant for Girls, Miss Bailey was primarily concerned with the coordination of the total activity program at West. She commented on the effects of the Flexible Scheduling:

"Our new program has resulted in more freedom for the students and this has made it necessary for each one to accept more individual responsibility.

Now that we have had one year to function within the framework of our new program, all students should have a greater awareness of the advantages offered by the program and in the future make greater use of the opportunities available to them."

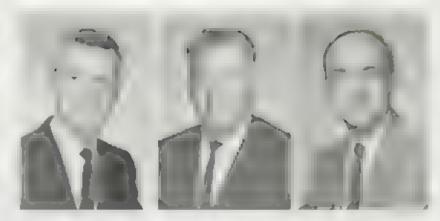

Mr. Siegel, Administrative Assistant for Boys, coordinated West's activity program in addition to aiding students with discipline and attendance problems. Mr. Siegel stated his faith in the West High Student:

"In completing my second year at West High, I have noticed a developing awareness on the part of the vast majority of students, of their responsibilities towards their school, peers, and activity participation. Keep up the good work!"

COUNSELORS

Mr. Preston Snapp, Mr. Ralph Traw, Mrs. Mildred Adair, Mrs. Virgina Berggren, Mrs. Moyne Jamison. Mr. Russell Harris, and Mrs. Mar. in Lee if of picture it worked with each individual student to find the curriculum which suited him best.

From his huge collection of student records West's head counselor, Mr. John Schoolland, selects a folder so he can have the background of a student he is to meet.

Mr. John Schoolland Head Counselor

The counselors began their work for the '66-'67 school year in the spring of 1966. They contacted eighth graders from all the grade schools in the West district for enrollment in high school. Working with the same students throughout the year, the counselors helped each student think for himself in choosing his classes and achieving to the best of his ability. The counselors gave and interpreted tests, explained college entrance requirements, helped with job placements, made scholarship recommendations, and helped students work out their individual problems. Always interested in their students, counselors — in addition to their guidance work — sponsored clubs, councils, and other extra-curricular activities.

BOOKSTORE

Mrs. Clara Tanner and Mrs. Annales Moore managed West's bookstore, which offered everything from five cent erasers to ten dollar books. Mountains of school supplies went from the bookstore to the students: books, pencils, paper, lockers, rentals and fees for special classes, and numerous small — but necessary — materials. When the bookstore wasn't open to students, Mrs. Tanner and Mrs. Moore handled club requisitions, school insurance, caps and gowns for seniors, and financial records for all clubs

CAFETERIA

the year. Flexible scheduling led to more work for all more food to buy and prepare, more students to plan for. A new snack bar line inside the cafeteria helped speed up all the snack bar activities and also prevented some damp students on rainy days. Despite the heavy load, the hardworking cafeteria staff, directed by Mrs. Ann Donahue, kept West's cafeteria running smoothly.

Thirteen women helped 2500 students through the '66-'67 school year. Joyce Knight, Louise DeCenso, Mary Gillette Vi Ridgley, Isabell Ritzenthaler, Shirley Peebles, Clara Cummins, Art Carlisle, Peggy Strasser, Harnet Besst, Emily Adams, Naomi Buckshot, and Buryl Felton handled the various clerical jobs. They filed student information, checked students in and out of school, recorded grades, arranged appointments, typed recommendations, kept class sizes — all to keep pupil accounting running smoothly

CLERICAL

HEALTH

West's casualties, major and minor, all passed through the door of Mrs. Laura Scoheld's office Students who felt ill were either permitted to go home or to rest on one of the beds in the nurse's office. All manner of aches and pains resulting from a rough game in P.E., falling down the stairs, or just tripping over feet were treated by her. In addition to the daily illness, Mrs. Scofield processed physicals, reported disabilities, tested hearing and vision, and handled all P.E. excuses. Throughout the year, Mrs. Scofield's presence assured students that there would always be someone interested in their health at West

West's litrarians Mrs Dorothy Davis circulation, Miss Bartiara Riggin Assistant Librarian, Mrs Anne McGrath Library othice, and Miss Hill a Litrarion Head Librarian worked to maintain a good atmosphere for research and study Responsible for all in brary resources the staff purchased materials did the final processing for new additions to the library, and regulated circulation.

SENIORS

Senior executives, President Carl LeSueur, Secretary Nancy Peck, Treasurer Joe Galbraith, and Vice-president Gene Losey, co-ordinate senior activities with the assistance of co-sponsors Miss Bette Plew and Mr. Carl Jepson.

One of the most spirited graduating classes West has seen, this year's Seniors have spent much of their time being unusual. Their activities included sports dances, the magazine sale, the PTA membership drive, a homecoming float, the Junior Olympics, the Senior Banquet, and Senior Ditch Day

SENIORS

Going all out, the Seniors placed first in each competitive activity — only the second senior class in the history of West to do so. Aside from activities, the Seniors have the unique distinction of being the first graduating class to experience flexible scheduling and the only one to be composed, almost entirely, of students born the same year as West.

Clattering typewriter keys make concentration almost impossible during a timed writing.

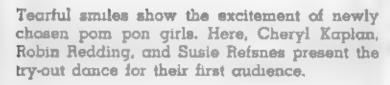

"Drive detensively," advises Wayne Carter as he explains the difference between driving on a raceway and driving on the highway.

An assembly invaded by "Up With People" members led to enthusiastic audience participation as the spirit of unity spread through the auditorium

Carole Carpenter, Nancy Magnan, and Rochelle Swanson work for perfection in their synchronized swimming routine.

Rick Begam trys desparately to escape a walking, talking "Wonder Wanda Doll." She's just one more example of what science did for Christmas '66."

Melissa Manley and Debbie Harmon leap forward to wish everyone a "Happy Hobday" during the Christmas assembly.

TAP brought the 'MOD (March of Dimes) Six Plus or Min Few' to sing a few dimes into their tuna. Jim Wood De Davis, Gary Williams, and Ben Schaub formed the tale group.

The annual Puff and Pant Prom gave Dee Myers, Lilian Cardone, Jeanne Brubaker, and Bea Myers a chance to prove that, deep down inside, they are still little girls complete with huge bows and all-day lollipops.

Perfect timing is characteristic of the West High Drill Team. This arc of rifles is among the many precision formations practiced by the group

Director Alan Paul studies the script for the Student Government Assembly.

Resource centers provide a good study atmosphere for Cindy Langevin and Ginger Howard Penne Nieme's hair-raising reaction to the "This Atomic World" assembly further demonstrates her "electric" personality.

Modern Rick "angel" Begam explains how "Christmas '66" doesn't show true Christmas spirit to oldfashioned Pete "Santa" Sownie

Eyeing the bullseye with determination, Carolyn Nelson, Susie Kingsland, and Paula Cantrell prepare to send their arrows straight to the mark.

Halloween sprites, flitting on the field, proved to be members of Productions in costume during the football half-time

The script for the Student Government Assembly keeps Greg Owen, Colien Hefferan, Ken Schoolland, and Bill Meyers laughing during its first reading.

Assembly audiences show their appreciation with applause and smiles

"It's radioactive!" exclaims Mr. M. Marcee as he tests Dave Wilkof's wifile ball with a Geiger counter. Dave doesn't need to worry about shrivelling up, though; the counter just barely registers.

HONORS

People will do strange things to win first place for their class during the Junior Olympics. Here, representatives of each class take great pains not to crush their chances for first place in the "Crown the King" egg toss.

Congratulations are in order for West's homecoming royalty with Greg Owen and Chiquita Rollins among the first to give them. Jan McEldowney, clutching the bouquet of roses presented her, is all smiles for her admirers while the rest of her subjects dance under the spell of "Medieval Magic."

These relayers find that competing in the lunior Olympics is a thankless job. Although they win points, their efforts bring nothing but laughs.

HOMECOMING

QUEEN JAN McELDOWNEY KING JOHN PADELFORD

Joy is expressed in some unusual ways — especially by brand-new homecoming royalty. Huge smiles marked the happiness of Queen Jan McEldowney and King John Padelford. Excitement almost crackled as Jim Boice and Barbara Baker heard their names announced. Opposite reactions, smiles from June Goodson and tears from Mary Feeney, surrounded the smiling Carl LeSueur, while Paul Price and Candy Oen exchanged unbelieving glances as they started around the field. Back at the wrestling room, Mark Van Hoesen received instructions for the second half, forcing him to give Mary up to Carl Spirits socred as West's cheerleaders and pom pon girls released good luck ballons to inspire the team to an even greater homecoming victory. The cheers increased to a steady roar as the maroon and white of the Thunderbird team, determined to make the homecoming game a victory, flashed onto the field.

ACTIVITIES

Aided by advisor Mr. Harold Robinson, the Student body officers President Jim Boice, Vice-president Ken Schoolland, Girl's Secretary Debbie Oseran, and Boy's Secretary Treasurer B. Meyer coordinated all school activities

Voices representing the interests of students, faculty, and administration, and community all came together before the Associated Student Government. Divided into Student Council and the Executive Committee, Student Government is the most active and most important student organization on the campus

Working together, the two branches organized West traditions and activities into a busy, spirit-filled year. Student Council was divided into sixteen committees to provide various services around West: A.F.S., Bulletin Board, Calendar, Publications, Scrapbook and Hall of Fame.

STUDENT

Traditions, Career, Safety, Constitution, Evaluation and Recommendations, Honors and Recognition, Homebound, Orientation, Student-teacher Relations, Special Events, and Music, Drama, Art, and Dance. These groups provided career information for Seniors, publicity for school events, help for new or homebound students, support for special projects and activities, and honor for outstanding students, to name a few.

The major goal of Student Government, that of providing the best environment and attitude for a well-rounded education, led to an activity-filled, long-to-be-remembered school year.

Student Council approved and coordinated the many worthwhile projects and activities desired by the whole student body, providing practice in the skills of leadership and self government for its members. (See Activities Index for identification.)

"All who are in favor of . . . please raise your hands," members of the Student Council vote on one of the many suggestions which are brought from reg rooms all over the campus.

Any student with a good idea may see it adapted through the workings of self-government in the Student Council — if the student body desires a change. As the voice of the general student body, Student Council representatives like Mark Moore present ideas and opinions collected from all those they represent. After discussing the idea during the meeting, the representatives take the idea to their reg rooms for further discussion. At the next meeting, a final vote is taken and the fate of the idea — rejection or final polishing and recommendation — is decided.

With the big job of maintaining order in the cafeteria, members of the Cafeteria Committee had little time for rest during their assigned periods. Directed by chairman Paul Price, the hard working group regulated lunch lines, controlled cutting, kept the chairs at the tables, and cleaned up after forgetful lunchers. With the help of a Sun Dial editorial, the committee participated in the cafeteria clean-up

ASSEMBLY COMMITTEE — Entertainment, spirit, and food for thought were supplied almost every week through the efforts of the Assembly Committee. Members combined imagination and wit to produce lively scripts for the Student Government Assembly and the Rodeo Assembly. In addition to creative activities, chairman Dave Wilkof filed requisitions, worked out schedules, and made sure that every assembly ran smoothly.

PUBLICITY COMMITTEE — Spirited slogans plastered windows, bulletin boards, and walls, announcing athletic events, concerts, dances, and major club functions. Melissa Manley, as chairman, compiled lists of approaching events and asked her committee to publicize them. The Publicity Committee was also responsible for spirit boosting signs on buses and the lists of players in the cafeteria.

ELECTION AND PUB-LIC RELATIONS COM-MITTEE - West's public image and its major elections were the responsibilities of chairman Alan Stein and his committee. One of their first accomplishments was a brunch for Phoenix AFS students. Other activities promoting West's image included the placing of school scrapbooks in the library and sending Christmas cards to all Arizona high schools. Extra time was filled with election plans. The rules and supervision for school elections-from Freshman Class officers to Rodeo Queen-were supplied by the busy committee.

ACTIVITY COMMITTEE — Responsible for West tradition and spirit, Sue Hershfield and her committee initiated numerous spirit-raising activities Weekly brainstorming sessions ended in Who's Who Day, Class Competition, a great Homecoming, exciting Rodeo activities, and Quad Curiosities for every game.

vell as original ideas were used to create be proper atmosphere for all Student Government sponsored dances. The Social Compittee, with chairman Sharon Holmes, used magination to decorate the All-School Mixer, as Homecoming Dance, the Rodeo Dance, the Knee-Knocker, and the Computer Dance, he Social Committee also introduced reshments as a feature of every dance.

INANCE COMMITTEE — Approval of I Associate Student expenditures not station the budget is required from chairman . Gard and the Finance Committee: Mrs. ason, Mr. Huff, Mr. Siegel, Miss Bailey, Mr. hoolland, Bill Meyers, Joe Galbrath, John negle, David Shapiro, Charlie Fleishman.

AFS FOREIGN EXCHANGE STUDENTS

"Walk together, talk together, O ye peoples of the earth: then and only then shall ye have peace." Following the creed of the American Field Service, Fe Abellera of the Philippines and West's own Debbie Oseran walked among peoples of lands strange and new to them, helping open the door to world understanding and friendship.

After months of waiting. Debbie received notice that she had been selected to represent America in Brazil. Early in the summer she was on her way. Before traveling to her Brazilian family in Vitoria, she spent four fabulous days in Rio de Janeiro. "Home" at last, she met her new father, mother and twenty-three year old sister, Marcia. Debbie's Portuguese was practically non-existent and her family couldn't speak English, so for two days Marcia served as an interpreter while Debbie communicated with her family—in French. The summer passed all too quickly, leaving memories of parties, shopping-tours, sightseeing, and most of all, warm, friendly Brazilian people. Debbie said of her trip, "It was actually a dream come true. I will always be grateful to West High and the AFS program for giving me this oportunity to represent Americans

Fe came to West expecting to become very bow-legged and to live with cowboys and Indians. Instead of cowboys and Indians, she found "normal" people, all very friendly and willing to help. One of Fe's favorite pastimes was cheering at games. She also liked student government and the school spirit which made her feel more a part of West and less alone. She loved the American way of life. Comparing it with that of the Philippines she noted that American people lived at a faster pace with more social life and less formality, "Boys visit girls in cut-offs. At home they dress-up." On the whole, she found that Americans were less serious and more carefree and fun-loving than the people of the Philippines

When she returns to the Philippines, Fe plans to study for the foreign service. Her trip to the United States has given her new insight into American education, land-scapes, customs, and government. The fond memories and new understanding she has received from West will make a small-but significant-step toward world understanding.

Dear T Birds,

My year here at West is fast drawing to a close and I know how sad it will be when time comes for me to leave. Going to school with you and participating in the various school activities was a wonderful experience.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my sincerest thanks to all of you who in one way or another helped to make my year an extremely enjoyable one. I will always look back to the school year '66-'67 with fondest memories.

Fe C. Abeliera

Fe glances up from her Latin text to make a mental comparison between the "dead" language and her native Tagalog.

Still-vivid memories of new and exciting places sparkle in Debbie's eyes as she points to her summer home in Brazil West was host to two representatives of the Youths for Understanding program, Ewerton Machado Da Silva Ferreira of Brazil and Alejandro Irazabal of Chile.

Ewerton, who plans to enter the Diplomatic Service when he is nineteen, felt his visit gave him experiences and a knowledge of English which would help him reach his goal. He described West students as very friendly - in his own words, "I feel like I was in my home." Ewerton loved the "tranquility" of Phoenix. He found friends everywhere. Of his stay he said, "I liked West very much. Here in the school I found only good kids. I feel that they are my real friends and I always remember them. My American parents are very good and they are real parents to me. With all these good things I only hope to come back one day to see all these friends that will stay here but that I'll never lorget. I would like to say thanks to everybody and I hope to have a chance to return to this great country. Ewerton."

Alejandro was impressed when he arrived at Phoenix. During the long trip from Chile, other foreign exchange students, destined for greener states, teased him about how unlucky it was to be assigned to "the desert." Alex fond himself deciding that all he could do was finish his mission and hope for the best. After living in Phoenix, he could only say, "I am the lucky one!" Alex loved West life, even though American teenagers live at a "faster pace." He found many American ideas and customs to take back to Chile and hoped that he had left something of Chile at West. Sad at leaving the desert, he said, "I think that it was yesterday my first day at West, and today at the end of this school year. I need to leave my degreat American family, teachers, and friends. But though far, I will have everybody in my thoughts. Going back to Chile I am lucky considering myself a Thunderbird and a Westerner. I don't say good bye, I'll see you, T-birds. Alejandro."

CONCERT CHOIR

This year our music department added a special ensemble, the Concert Choir, which consisted of students from the two mixed choruses. Concert Choir, under the direction of Mr. Serge Huff, met second period every day. Their performances, many with the 6th hour Mixed Chorus, have carried them to various parts of the valley.

A CAPPELLA

(See Activity Index for identification.)

"Make someone happy" might well be the motto of Miss Kathleen Poore's A Cappella. Their songs, ranging from "Everything's Comm' Up Roses" to "America," lifted the spirits of numerous groups around the city: the West High P.T.A., various elementary schools, the Charity Bazaar Lunch eon at the Church of Latter Day Saints, several concerts a West, a C.Y.A. meeting at the First Methodist Church, and a a climax, a performance at the State Capitol.

A chorus divided can stand, and ours has. Sixth hour Mixed Chorus, under the direction of Mr. Serge Huff, has performed around the Valley for many organizations, separate from the appearances of Miss Katheen Poore's Third hour Mixed Chorus. (See Activity adex for identification.)

BAND

Hours of practice made the 1966-1967 West High Band one of the best in the state having more All-State representation than any other school in the valley. Its one-hundred-ten members combined talent, originality, and lots of pep to raise spirit for every game. Exciting pre-game and half-time shows, each consisting of a series of formations and music in keeping with a central theme, were presented during the football season. Rousing music backed the cheerleaders and pompon girls at every pep assembly and pep rally. Splitting into two groups for the basketball season, the band brought a beat to every home game. Recombining, the West Bandsmen presented several concerts: two of which, one classical and one pop, were performed in the auditorium; and a "concert" of popular hit songs was performed in the quad.

During the school year, the West High Band ventured from the campus to make several performances around the valley. Arizona State University honored the West "music men" with an invitation to perform with other valley high schools for the half-time show at the Sun Devil Stadium on ASU Band Day. At the Arizona State Fair, the West High Band, almost rained out, sloshed through a day away from school.

Not all band activities were musical. During the football season, the band good-naturedly served a buffet dinner for the visiting Salpointe Band. Throughout the year, band members in civilian clothing were seen selling candy, tickets to car washes, and anything else of value to meet the $3500 budget for their spring trip to California.

As a result of the efforts of the hard working Orchestra Council, the various activities of the West High Orchestra from a special concert in Las Vegas to a spagnett, sinner, ran smoothly. See Activities Index for identification of both pictures.)

ORCHESTRA

"Allegro or Andante", the 1966-1967 West High Orchestra was exceptional. This active group presented several concerts featuring such beautiful music as "Schubert's Unfinished Symphony", "Cello Concerto", "Overtime and Allegro," and "Capriccio". The audiences ranged from grade school students to the West High Student Body.

Many of the Orchestra's members participated in other orchestras around the valley. Among these "outside" musical groups were the Phoenix Symphony Youth Orchestra, the Phoenix College Community Orchestra, the Master Wind Ensemble, and the Phoenix Symphonette.

Chmaxing a successful year, the sixty-five talented musicians performed for the Music Educator's National Conference at Las Vegas, the greatest honor extended to an Arizona high school orchestra. While at the conference, they presented "Llano Estacado" which was composed by Ronald Lo Presti, resident composer at Arizona State University. This number had previously been played only by the Arizona State University Symphony Orchestra.

In addition to their musical activities, the Orchestra members passed some of their time in the field of business. Money had to be earned for the trip to Las Vegas and for music camp scholarships Working toward this goal, the members of the Orchestra sold fruitcakes, tickets to the Spaghetti dinner sponsored by the Orchestra Parents' Organization, and naturally, tickets to a special money raising concert.

Members of the West High Productions class practiced the time art of dancing. The girls received instruction in basic dance techniques, practice in dance choreography.

PRODUCTIONS

Members of Product or sepent a busy semester coreographing and rehearsing dances for three projects: a football half-time show, a children's show, and a workshop for seventh and eighth graders

At the beginning of the year, the girls selected their music and worked out patterns for the Halloween atmosphere of the half-time show. Strange music and weird costumes transformed the girls into ghosts, goblins, skeletons, pumpkins, and witches

Almost before packing away the pumpkin costumes, the guls began work on a presentation for nursery school children, "A Visit With Mother Goose". Toddlers from all over the valley saw Old King Cole, Little Boy Blue, Chicken Little, giants, fairies, and some funny dancing bags during one of the show's three presentations

Hoping to interest elementary school girls in West's dance program. Productions designed a workshop to teach some dance techniques and present some problems for the girls to solve. One of the groups of future dancers was asked to give an impression of glue. The result was a blob of linked, writhing girls in an "oozing" dance

Hours of work went into each project. Each one gave the girls new insight into the method and joy of expression using the body in a series of controlled movements — dance

A wall of mirrors in the dance room helps Penne Melick and Robin Reading assume the best position for the mood of their music.

Molly Colburn and Gwen Hurst pause to catch their reath and see how other dances are coming along

Each position in a dance must contribute to the idea and general effect of the dance as a whole. Drann Mahoney arranges Laurie Simon's arms to fit into the pattern

Searching for just the right effect. Penne Melick and Robin Redding try several positions before deciding Second semester meant only one thing to Productions the West-Central dance concert. Chosing "Highlights in American History" as their theme, the girls set to work. Planning, practice, and rehearsal after rehearsal led the girls right up to the night of the performance.

The show featured American history from the Revolution to the "Roaring Twenties" to the Beatles. Central made the first presentation, "The Struggle for Independence", which depicted colonization, unrest, and then the Revolution and independence. Skipping a few years, West presented a dance interpretation of "The Problem in the South" - beginning with the struggling within slavery, organizing into rebellion, and finally attaining freedom. "The Opening of the West" was presented, paturally, by West. The dance highlighted important moments of the Western movement: tearing up stakes in the East, conquering the mountains and plains, the early settlers, the wild, wild West, and finally, after great effort, statehood and the fulfillment of Manifest Destiny Central produced its idea of "The 20's and What Followed", complete with flappers and gangsters only to be wiped out by black-hooded depression. "December 7, 1941" West's girls depicted Pearl Harbor, patriotism, separations, and tragedy Modern times and the mod group were represented in "The Young People Speak," with West girls in miniskirts going from the jitterbug, to the twist, to all the modern go-go gyrations. To finish America's story, senior dancers from both West and Central predicted "The Future" in their traditional farewell dance

The strains of A Taste of Honey and the yells of "West Train" are familiar sounds whenever Pom pon girls and Cheerleaders are around. Together the girls spurred our sports teams to some of the greatest victories they have ever known T-shirts, ties and chocolate-chip cookies were just some of the tokens given by the lines to support the football, basketball, baseball, track, and wrestling teams. Along with the band, the girls represented West at the State Fair

Cheer

Tr.ps to Yuma and Tucson for football and basketball games and to Redlands to participate in the annual Cheerleading camp highlighted the year for the Cheerleaders. Selling megaphones, cookies, and popules, in addition to daily practice, has kept the girls busy.

Dancing for games, assemblies, dance concerts, and special appearances has given the Pompon girls plenty to do. Since their selection last February, the girls have sponsored car washes, bake sales, and a rummage sale. Choosing new girls on February 9th, traditionally "retired" this year's all-senior line, although they continued to dance out the year.

WESTERNER

> Liz Willers Editor

With the true West story as a goal, the '66-'67 WEST-ERNER Staif gathered the year's events for the yearbook's memory-filled chapters. Under the direction of Liz Willers, the only allow editor in the history of West the members of the staff strug into meet reading after dealing.

Plans for the WESTERNER were regun early in the summer. As the year progressed pittures were taken to record all the memorative events of the school year, lay outs were drawn up to organize pictures and copy into attractive arrangements, and copy was written to finish the story begun by each picture. Bit by bit, the pieces of the WESTERNER were finished — class pictures, football, Homecoming, Honors, basketball, Life, Activities, Clubs, spring sports a immediation

By minimizing mistakes and doing much of the work themselves the members of the staff were able to over come the financial difficulties caused by no presale through A tiv. y Lickets by careful planning and cooperation they were able to produce a mismorable record of the '66 67 school year, the WESTERNER.

GENERAL STAFF - Susie Dichter, Suzanne Utter, and Vivian Gulliver spent much of yearbook class out of class. Often better named "yearbook runners," members of the staff were sent to such distant sections of West as the football fields, the annex, the administration office, and maintenance to get important information for the WESTERNER. The girls were responsible for all necessary identification for indexing, which led to stopping complete strangers in the halls to identify another complete stranger in the picture.

ART STAFF — Originality and creativity, musts for the art staff, were combined to form interesting, attractive layouts. The girls, Pat Wade, Liz Willers, and Sharon Paulsen, art editors, arranged pictures and copy into a pleasing combination of black, white, and gray shapes to attract more readers and create the proper atmosphere for the many memories of the WESTERNER.

copy staff — Responsible for every word in the WESTERNER. members of the copy staff, Debbie Tscharner, Michelle Wheeler, copy editor, and Judy Yates, found theirs a world of whirling picas, synonyms, deadlines, interviews and disconnected thoughts. These — combined with hours taken from school time, night time, and time-off searching for just the right word — helped preserve each memory stored in the WEST-ERNER.

TYPING STAFF — Strangely spelled, outof-their-proper-order, almost unreadable words marched past the WESTERNER typists each day, just the first of the many typist traps. There was typed copy to proofread, printed copy to proofread, and f.nished copy to paste-down. The staff, Jan Brooks, Pam Housholder, and Suzy Laue worked on, allowing a minimum of errors to dim the memories recorded in the WESTERNER.

PHOTO STAFF — Assignments for the members of the photo staff, Dave Hanna, Jeri Bean, Mike Brubaker, and Jim Neice, took them to all corners of the campus: to the stadium for sports, pep assemblies, and group shots; to the quad for school life, special activities, and group shots; to the auditorium for assemblies, everywhere for West students in action. Field work was only the first step. The staff processed those pictures which best captured the many moods and memories of the '66-'67 school year for the WESTERNER.

Greg Tope and Dave Zoha buy the latest edition of the Sun Dial from Jan Spore and Linda Reed.

Co-ordinating this year's activities were editors Rick Shindell, Sherrie Paquette, and Cindy Champaque.

SUNDIAL

New ideas for the Sun Dial were plentiful when its three co-editors — Cindy Champagne, Sherrie Paquette, and Rick Shindell — put their heads together. All jumors, the editors organized their almost completely "green" staff into a hardworking unit. News from every corner of the campus — athletic achievements, club activities, Homecoming, Rodeo, elections, individual honors, everything — found its way into the interesting columns of the Sun Dial.

A new department of the staff, the Editorial Board, initiated the cafeteria clean-up campaign, just another example of the originality of this year's staff. The group of journalism 3-4 students and the three editors originated the idea and presented it effectively in the Sun Dial to create a successful campaign.

Hours of thought and effort went into each issue of the Sun Dial. Reports were written up in journalistic form, checked for grammar and punctuation, then sent to be printed. After receiving the columns from the printer, they were cut to fit onto the pages properly and sent to be published. Only after the staff had completed these time-consuming tasks could the student body of West High read the often funny and always informative Sun Dial.

Pasting down, in the process of making up the pages for printing, are Gary Van Der Steur, Art Editor, Mickey Peterson, Exchange Editor, Scott Wallace, Sports Editor, Ellen Mishkind, Feature Editor, Pam Ryan, News Editor, and Diane Siebrecht, Sales Manager.

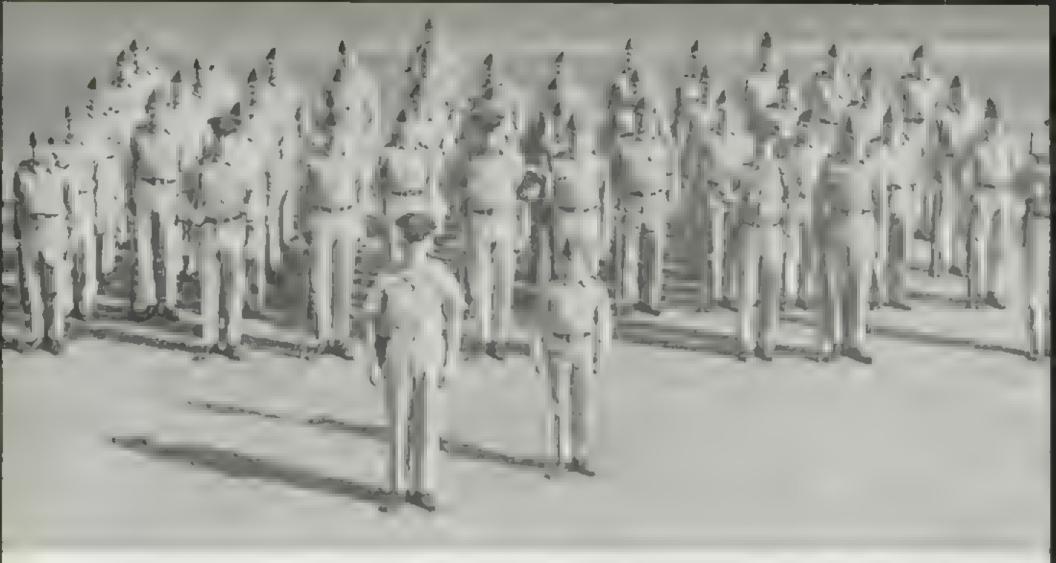

The Ad and Business staffs are responsible for the basic financial stability of the paper. The most essential people responsible for producing the Sun Dial are Chere Boy, Ad Staff, Jan Spore, Business Manager, Linda Reed, Ad Manager and Pat Parnell, Ad Staff.

MILITARY

The Military Department has been a permanent fixture at West ever since the school opened in 1949. #### DRAMA

Freezing in their tracks, two officers (Dennis Magary and Tom Bell) stare in disbelief as the "dead" Muriel (Linda Sadick) wakes up from a Mickey Finn hangover to find herself an unwilling prop for her friends' play.

Out of the Frying Pan

Fast moving and funny, "Out of the Frying Pan" represented the first major effort of the Drama Department. A major effort it was, as participants painted scenes, memorized lines, found props, rehearsed, made costumes, and practiced techniques — all to achieve perfection before opening night.

Members of the cast, John Sankovich, Alan Paul, Sue

Murphy, Pete Sownie, Linda Sadick, Jan Sownie, Edlyn Soderman, Barbie Baker, Charles Rhapson, Bob Shimer, Dennis Magary, and Tom Bell rehearsed for hours: after school, late at night, even in their sleep.

On opening night, all the weeks of hard work were brought together into one humorous and successful comedy with a place among West's best presentations.

Strange things come out of old trunks and none could be stranger than John Sankovich during a moment of madness as Pete Sownie will agree Hoping for their big break, Dottie (Barbie Baker Marge (Edlyn Soderman) and Muriel (Linda Sadick) practice the opening scene of their play with feeling.

"Dear God, please send us a producer!" is the heartfelt plea of the young actors as they become more and more discouraged.

"Thank God we got here in time!" exclaims Norman (Alan Paul) as he and Tony (Pete Sownie) take "crazy" George (John Sankovich) away.

Bodies are in abundance as Dottie, Marge, Kate, Norman, and George put the finishing touches on the play which represents their key to success.

FOOTBALL

Overcoming injuries to several key players, a preseasonal unranked squad of Thunderburd gridders play ed inspired ball to rack up an over-all 7-2-1 record and a final ranking of sixth place in state polls and second place in divisional standings

Guided by Coach Larry Philpot and his assistants. Mr. Don Bicknell and Mr. Bob Widmer, the team became heralded as one of the finest defensive eleven in Arizona, as they held their opponents to two touchdowns or less in each game.

The 22 seniors and 18 juniors started slowly but built up such momentum during the season that the final outcome for the title of 3AA Division Champions was not decided until the final game night of the season. West played like pros that night as they came from behind to drop Alhambra, 14-6; however, the win was all in vain, as Maryvale, a 10-0 victim of the Thunder birds the previous week, scored the ever important win over Phoenix Union to noil down the number one spot.

Using the foot of soccer-style kicker, Luis Vega, and the team leadership of quarterbacks. Ben Schaub and John Padelford, and defensive captain, Gary Williams, the varsity recorded its best season in 10 years. Vega came off the bench to boot victories over Carl Hayden, Central, Salpointe, and North with his unusual style of kicking, giving Thunderbird fans thrills they will long remember. For his steady play all season, Williams was selected to the first string of the All State defensive team, the first string of Division III defensive equad, and the winner of the Jim Edwards Memorial trophy as West High's outstanding player

What the Varsity team lacked in size, they made up in determination and spirit. Led by co-captains John Padelford and Gary Williams, the efforts of the team resulted in an impressive 7.2.1 season record and in a second place division rating

Destined to become varsity players the Freshman B team fought hard the entire season. Their overall record was 2.7

West's All-State forward Carl LeSueur, who has broken all existing acoring records, (in upper photo), drives past two lions from Alhambra on his way to another basket. (In lower photo), Carl displays his magic touch by seemingly casting a spell over a loose ball. His action on the court brought him selection as captain of the All-Division team, All-Varsity first team, and both Tucson and Phoenix newspapers' first string All-State Five.

Coach Fred Roche's high-flying Thunderbird five gave West's students their finest basketball season since they finished second in the state in 1957, ranking fifth in the top teams of the AA schools, second in Division III standings, and making the divisional play-offs for the first time in five years.

The varsity quintet opened the 1966-67 season with an easy win over East High and did not suffer a defeat until the semifinals of the Christmas Tournament in which they placed fourth. Playing without all-state forward Carl LeSueur, who was out with an ankle injury, the T-Birds dropped two tourney tilts and their record fell to 8 and 2.

In the divisional playoffs, the Rochemen opened against a fired up squad of Arcadia Titans, but came away with a thrilling, come-from-behind, last minute win. The next night, however, the tables were turned, and the Thunderbirds chances for a position in the state finals went winging out the window when Alhambra came from behind in the fourth period to claim the victory.

Highlights of the season were found in the many come-from-behind wins, the almost win in the second Phoenix Union tilt, and the big victory over Camelback when LeSueur fired in 46 points to set another school record.

With five juniors returning, headed by Karpinski and Bill Pellett, West could have another banner year in 67-68

As the new year began, Coach Roche, assisted by Coach Joe Barragon, fired the team along for three wins until being derailed by the state's number one team and eventual state champion, Phoenix Union. Not to be denied, West's big three, LeSueur, Denny Franklin, and Ken Darpinski, led the squad on another win rampage racking up six more until being dropped by Alhambra and Phoenix Union. These losses were sandwiched around a win over Carl Hayden, and the regular season play came to an end with West owning 19-6 overall and 14-3 division records.

During the pre-game warm-up of the West High-Phoenix Union baltle, John Lumm fires a shot from the free throw line as highly interested Morrison, Price, and Karpinski look on. (No Paul, that's not Superman up there!)

Throughout this game, the T-Birds maintained a lead to overcome the Spartans for an 83-72 victory. Carl LeSueur broke all gym records in this game with his 46 points.

Head Coach Fred Roche, assisted by J.V. Coach Joe Barragon, successfully guided the 1966-67 Thunderbird cagers through one of their most impressive seasons in the past ten years. With captain Carl LeSueur pacing the T-Birds with an average 23.3 points per game, the squad finished this season with an overall record of 19.6 and second place in the division with a 13-3 record.

Get that ball ! !! Junior Ken Schaub takes part in a foot race with two North players as they scramble for a loose ball in the T Bird Mustang battle on the West High court. The game was a tight struggle all the way until the last few minutes when the Roche men forged ahead for a 59-53 win. ("Here's an elbow for you," says Ken.)

What's the matter, sonny? A Maryvale Panther displays an expression of helplessness as he attempts to block Carl LeSueur who is on a drive to score two during the Maryvale game at West. Bill Pellett stands ready to assist LeSueur in the play.

On a Drive... Dennis Franklin moves ahead of an Alhambra Lion as he drives to score two for the T-Birds. Except for a 23-23 score at half-time, the Lions led the game until the final seconds when John Lumm sank a decisive free shot to leave the score 60-59. (... and what did you want to say, Carl?)

Johnny on the move — In West's final game of the season, the play-off loss at Phoenix Union, John Lumm scotts past an Alhambra guard to move into position to set up another basket for the Rochemen. (No Carl, this isn't a square dance!)

UNDERCLASSMEN

Prom-minded Juniors added to their riches throughout the year by sponsoring numerous money raising activities. A sports dance featuring a battle of the bands brought in one hundred ninety dollars. In true Christmas spirit, Juniors sold five hundred candy cames

JUNIORS

Several car washes added an average of thirty-five dollars to the treasury. The Juniors didn't spend ALL their time making money. There were decorations, invitations, entertainment, and refreshments to plan. All the time, money, and hard work was well worth the results at the Junior-Senior Prom. held in the Thunderbird Room of the Westward Ho Hotel

Hard at work balancing equations for Mr. Cofer, these students are learning that (in chemistry at least) you get back just what you put in.

Most students could live without experiencing one of Mr. Jones' history lectures. Without them, though, what would break the monotony of memorizing every word of the text and almost as many from "other sources"?

The olive tree area — perennially a favorite spot of the students — found even more visitors this year under the flexible scheduling program

West's spirited Sophomore Class led by its officers President Dennis Schaub, Treasurer David Shapiro, Secretary Ginni Weaver, and Vice-President Diane Nelson, and Sponsors Mrs. Virginia Berggren and Mr. Joe Barragon, had an exceptionally prosperous year.

Wealthy as it is spirited, the sophomore class has shown it is determined to make the Class of 1969 one of the best. The Sophomores sponsored a sports dance, brought in the second largest amount of money from the magazine sale, and participated in several other money raising projects to make them one of the richest sophomore classes West has had

SOPHOMORES

Sophomores were responsible for a homecoming float and supported the TAP program by sending a delegation to the TAP symposium. Spirited and active, the Sophomore class has greatly added to the '66-67 school year

With me help of their sponsors, Mrs. Mayne Jamison and Mr. Alfred Romo, the freshman class officers, President Ray Villemez, Secretary Kathy Wallace, Treasurer Charles Fleishman, and Vice-president Delbert Mack, worked hard to make their first year at West a memorable one.

Another class of Freshmen has managed to survive a year of the traditional teasing. This year's Freshmen, however, had to survive tradition AND the confusing flexible scheduling. The first taste of this confusion came when they struggled through Freshman Day, lost in hours of orientation and testing.

FRESHMEN

Elections and a week of campaigning produced new officers and a voice in student government. Guided by their officers. Freshmen sponsored a sports dance, a homecoming float, and several money raising projects. With the experience of their freshman year behind them, the Class of 1970 has a bright future at West.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This has been a year of change for West High and its Student Body. In adapting the new flexible scheduling program, the students of West had the apportunity to develop into more mature, well rounded young adults

But probably uppermost in the minds of the students at year's end are the memories, the friends, the classes, the activities, and everything else that comprised the year. This book is a record to keep these memories alive.

So many people were required to publish this book that simple thanks are not nearly enough, but our sincerest thanks now go to:

Mr. Richard Zimmerman, without whose assistance as both our advisor and photographer, this book's completion would not have been possible Mr. Hank Shulman of Southwest Yearbook Company, for catching our many errors and being eternally patient.

Mr. Bob Wilcox, for providing the fine photography in many of the sections.

Mr. Jim Agee, for allowing us to use the talents of Judy Yates and other sports writers for our Sports section; and Paul Metchick for writing military copy. Most importantly, the fifteen people who comprised the Staff and have given you the 1967 Westerner.

Your Editor, Liz Willers
